The opinions and ideas expressed by the writers in OUTERMOST are their own and not necessarily those of the editor.

Whether you accept them, or some of them, as fact or fiction, YOU will be the sole judge. The writers have their own definite opinions and in many cases have their "own" proof of the matter. Whether you can agree with them or not is another question.

Nevertheless, we feel that the ideas expressed have some merit and should see the light of day instead of being stored away in the dark recesses of a filing cabinet.

You may very well find your answer to UFOs when you read these articles. Many are so-called personal experiences while others speculate on information already known to the individual writer.

So, open up your imagination, stretch it to the farthest reaches of the Universe... let in the thoughts from eternity...and you have...OUTERMOST!

THE REALITY OF UFOs      By KENNETH LARSON

Leading Soviet scientists say that UFOs seem to be directed by highly intelligent minds that could be conducting a survey of the planet Earth. Dr. Felix Zigel, assistant professor of astronomy at the Moscow Aviation Institute, says that observations already made show that UFOs behave intelligently.

They regard the matter so seriously that in October, 1967, they set up a UFO observation Center so as to conduct an intensive study of the sightings. The Russian scientists and experts base their studies on the rapidly accumulating sightings reported in recent years over that country and from other countries (over 75 of them).

The objects reportedly have been seen not only by witnesses (including scientists) but have been seen on photo plates and radar screens.

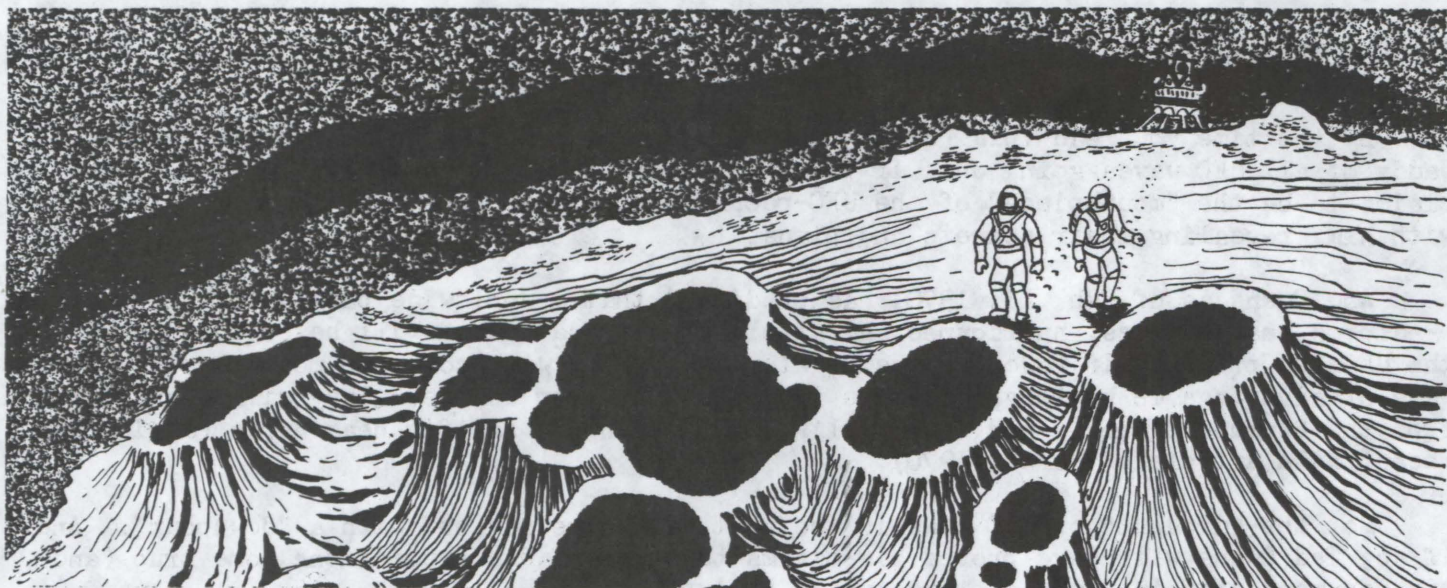

On April 22, 1967, Dr. James E. McDonald, senior physicist at the Institute of Atmospheric Physics, University of Arizona, gave a talk on UFOs before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Dr. McDonald said that American scientists are 20 years behind in scientific study of the objects and that it was his conviction that the problem of the UFOs is the greatest scientific problem of our time.

During 1967, the University of Colorado established a UFO research group and released a report two years later, most of it negative. The U.S. Air Force says that UFOs don't exist.

Question: What happens when the American study group issued a report discounting the phenomena? What happens when Russian scientists continue to uphold their opinion that UFOs are real and behave in an intelligent pattern?

They say that competition is good and healthy...and competition of this type may force American scientists to think twice about the many UFO reports of the past 70 years over America, and the immense pile of documentary evidence accumulated on this subject. ☐

The Lonely Place (Condensed chapter from THE SILVER BRIDGE by Gray Barker)	32

By the time you read this (if it is the summer of 1970) there may be the grand-daddy of all UFO waves going on...if the prediction of Ted Owens is right. Ted Owens claims to be the "mouthpiece" of the UFO-people, who are in constant telepathic touch with him, revealing their secrets and plans.

And Owens as of Feb. 13, 1970, has predicted that a worldwide barrage of violence ---storms, earthquakes, hurricanes, great blackouts, and such---will be engineered by the UFOs to prove their powers to us. Along with that will come the most massive UFO wave of sightings in history, and more landings than ever before. They will issue forth from the Bermuda Triangle and the Devil's Triangle in the Pacific near Japan (as in my recent SAQA article of March, 1970).

So, the "drought" of UFO news in the past two years may end with a "downpour". And if so, Ted Owens will have proved his claims that 99% of his predictions come true (and his documentation in the past three years is impressive).

Regardless of the physical contactees, this matter of ESP contact with the saucer-men is gaining ground rapidly. I personally have corresponded (and met) a lady I can't identify for you, who in the past few years has typed reams of messages from UFOs, containing scientific terms and concepts that seem entirely beyond her capacity.

And it is significant, if you go back over old UFO reports, how many witnesses said they had "heard words" in their minds from hovering UFOs or from occupants stepping out of landed craft. It is one of those too-many-times-repeated phenomena that have the ring of truth.

The lady mentioned before has been getting repeated warnings of some worldwide series of disasters to come (no date given) which will wipe out current civilization---because it is going downhill morally and decaying---and force mankind to make a new start. This is not unlike the messages and predictions received by other "sensitives", even famed ones known nationally. There almost seems to be a consensus among prognosticators that some major catastrophe lies ahead for Earth, before the year 2000.

In fact, the implication is there (sometimes stated flatly) that the reason UFOs have appeared in massive numbers at our world for 20-odd years is because this world calamity is due. Whether they are here merely as observers, or as actual instigators, or as rescuers, is anybody's guess. At least the whole theory hangs together, ominously.

To add to the ESP factor, for years while my newspaper feature ran - OUR SPACE AGE - I received many letters mentioning such "mental contacts" with saucer-men. Another woman in New Jersey described three separate sightings in which "soothing messages" flowed into her mind. It is hard to believe that all those people simply have a superb imagination---they are often simple people who have little imagination about anything. Their experience always comes unexpectedly, shockingly, without any warning. Hardly a sign of a neurotic who has been "hearing voices" all his life.

If the world is gripped, at this reading, by disasters, plus flocks of UFO sightings and landings galore, Ted Owens will be vindicated and the case for UFO-ESP will be wrapped up---except, of course, for the professional disbelievers of the Establishment. But even they will have to wonder.

UNDERWATER SAUCER CONTACT By REY D'AQUILA

Ad Beers, married, four children, technological background, keen yachtsman, with a preference for the water off Zeeland (S.W. province of Holland) was sailing in 1967 on the Oosterschelde, near Burgsluis which is on the island of Schouwen-Duiveland, with his family.

It was at this time that they encountered a submarine -- UFO just below the surface. The UFO was of classical design -- disc-shaped. Beers got stuck in the forcefield of the UFO, and rescued two alien beings from being drowned.

He later found out that the object was from a planet called IARGA, from beyond our solar system.

For rescuing the two aliens, Beers was offered the choice between (1) metal artifacts from Iarga, or (2) two days of briefing on Iarga conditions and situations. Beers chose the latter. The information was told to him in a partly instrumental "communication" with a computer. The concepts were "put in his mind" in a completely out-of-the-ordinary way. Concepts covered the whole of Iargan conditions and situations - technologically, scientifically, socially, planologically (traffic and building, living conditions, etc.) philosophically, sexual behaviour, etc.

With the concepts he was given the "pictures" (mental pictures) with the aid of internationally reputed Rudolf Das, who provided all the technical designs.

Das said, "I've tried to reason out Beers' information in their vastness (which puzzles me most of all, how can that man be so complete in his details!) and tried to approach them with the present technological standards. Result: most extremely progressive, but not impossible."

This statement from a down-to-earth technical man speaks for Ad Beers sound insight.

HUMANOID TYPE: According to Earth standards of "beauty", not so favorable, however closely fitting Iarga planetary conditions (higher gravity). Iargans are husky, squatted, extremely strong (like a gorilla), very broad and muscular shoulders, short legs (wobbly gait).

Conclusion: (the writer's) the place of contact, near the town of Burgsluis on the Oosterschelde, incidentally lies on the orthothenic line connecting Coimbra (Fatima) in Portugal, Knokke (Belgium), The Hague (Holland) - Leeuwarden/Friesland and runs on to Denmark. UFOs have been observed along this line. Moreover these places are of historical interest. The Hague (my home) had a squadron of UFOs (15 - 20) in July, 1967. I myself was the witness. Leeuwarden had a complete "blackout", not technically explained. SNEEK (10 km from Leeuwarden) had two holes in a meadow, not explained. KNOKKE had a traffic jam according to motors being stopped by passing UFO.

Fatima (1917) had a sensational "miracle of God" (R.C. version) which could be explained 50 years later as a UFO phenomenon. All this speaks for a GENUINE experience of Ad Beers.

However, Mr. Beers is too vulnerable in his social position to allow for a truthful statement, so he covers truth with fiction in an acceptable line of thought, thereby launching his own ideals and ideas about a "better world".

Mr. Beers, (pen name is Stefan Degnaerde) has written his experience in book form which he calls OUTERSPACE CIVILIZATION. Dutch text, "Buitenaardse Beschaving", f 14,90, publishers Kluwer, Deventer. It is being translated into four foreign languages, including English. When asked by the press, he refused to give away his source of information, which does not make sense, if it was really "fiction" he wrote. It does make sense however, if he wrote the truth. In both cases he created a mystery, which should sell his book better. He does not want to make a profit on his book, the funds will be used for translations into 4 books. He does not need profit as he is well-to-do. Meanwhile, he has started an action for "survival" of man and his planet Earth. In his book he is offering sound suggestions for Earth experts in various fields. Beers says: "I really have "seen" all those things, although maybe not quite as I have described them." Mr. Beers is co-manager of SCANIA importers (cars and buses) of The Hague. ☐

AMERICAN SAUCER LANDING OF 1820 By KENNETH LARSON

Strange to say, one of the most striking saucer landings in North American history may have happened to a simple, poorly-educated and 14-year-old farm youth named Joseph Smith on March 22, 1820, near Manchester, New York.

The story began when Joseph visited a wooded grove near his home, the sky was clear and blue. Suddenly, Joseph wrote, he saw a brilliant object in the sky, but at a considerable distance. This unidentified object appeared to be gradually descending towards him and as it came nearer it increased in brilliance and magnitude.

By the time the object reached the top of the trees, the entire area for some distance, was illuminated in a glorious manner. The object continued descending until it rested on the earth. At the same time, Joseph said that he felt some type of unusual sensation throughout his body, as if the object had radiated an unusual energy.

When the object rested on the ground, two personages who exactly resembled each other, appeared before the witness saying they were of the LORD. Thus, approximately 44 years after the American Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776, an American citizen reported the landing of a UFO with two personages speaking to him. This was 150 years previous to this year.

Joseph Smith said that he received another visit from a heavenly personage, named Moroni, on September 22, 1823. The scene was his farm home, with the brilliant figure suddenly appearing within his room at night in three consecutive visits.

The stature of this latter personage was a little above the common size of a man, Joseph said. This glorious being declared himself to be an Angel of the Lord, sent to give a message to Joseph. Moroni told the witness that he knew about the existence of some ancient, engraved metal plates, bound into a book containing the records of two groups of people that had sailed to the ancient Americas across the oceans during the era 3,000 B.C. and again around 600 B.C. In the latter case, the group had split up into various factions, with terrible civil wars.

Around 421 A.D. the last survivor, Moroni, gathered the metal plates, engraved the last records and buried them in the ground near present-day Manchester, N.Y. These ancient records had been engraved in "Reformed Egyptian", a language related to Jerusalem and the Hebrews, from whence one of the groups sailed to Central America. Joseph said that Moroni told him the plates had been buried around 1,400 years and that he would have to wait 4 years before recovering them. Joseph said that he dug up the engraved records on Sept. 22, 1827, translating them into English by means of an optical instrument called the Urim and Thummin, buried with the plates. Eleven witnesses left a written statement, testifying that they had seen and examined the metal plates before they were returned to Moroni. However, Joseph said that he had only translated the unsealed plates, with the sealed section returned to the Angel to be revealed anew in the future.

The young witness was to encounter much opposition and ridicule, with his Mormon followers chased out of Jackson County, Missouri, during November, 1833. While being held in the jail at Carthage, Illinois, an armed mob burst in, shooting and killing Joseph and his brother Hyrum, June 27, 1844, while another brother reportedly died a month later after being chased by a mob.

The Mormons split up, with one group migrating west to first settle Great Salt Lake, Utah, July 24, 1847, and another group settling at Independence, Missouri -- called the "Zion" by Joseph Smith, where a complex of 24 temples was to be eventually built by all the Mormons who gathered there.

The area of ancient Mexico and Central America abounds with ancient civilizations and relics. The people in the Book of Mormon reportedly landed on the coasts of Mexico. Recently, thousands of people saw what seemed to be UFOs over the coast of Veracruz, Mexico, accompanied by a sharp earthquake, changes in temperature and colors in the sky. The date was March 27/69.

One wonders if this display had some relationship to Mexico's ancient history and the Book of Mormon records, archaeological sites, etc.

In a book entitled THE SACRED BOOK OF ANCIENT AMERICA, Harold Velt describes a baptism that was performed in the River Thames, London, Ontario, Canada, Dec. 29, 1875. Suddenly, a brilliant, beautiful light extended from the heavens to the scene, with a sound like a mighty wind. Either the beam or an object descended to the river with a shaft straight up and down, just as bright on the inside edge as the center--then it disappeared. A similar event happened near Carmacks, Canada, Jan. 20, 1969. Thus it is entirely possible that Joseph Smith saw one of the first saucer landings, with occupants, and related to the Lord and ancient civilizations on this continent.

HOW THINGS REALLY LOOK By RICHARD S. SHAVER

It is frightening to sit and watch the regular TV programs while at the same time reading an issue of "Saucers, Space & Science" or "Probe" or "Phenomena Magazine"...to get the perspective of the whole world outlined against the picture of swooping saucers quite ignored by that world of ours.

If you remember the "War of the Worlds" by H.G. Wells...as he draws the picture of the descending invasion ships...the parallel to our present series of flaps is really startling.

Not believing in flying saucers is very like not believing in lice, or bedbugs, or any of those unpleasant hiding things we like not to think about. You have to take measures.

The great lakes trout probably didn't believe in lamprey eels until they got them on their backs, sucking the life out of them.

Most UFO buffs, from editors of zines down to the lowliest casual reader of UFO zines, have one hope on their horizon. That is that their efforts will lead to some sensible attention by the "authorities" to the broad problem the UFO present...the problem of "are they invaders", "why do we have alien ships in our skies", "what do they want here on Earth" and "are they really from space".

To people like me, who have been with the modern UFO scene since long before Arnold's sighting of saucers hit the newspapers, this picture of worldwide disinterest is the most frightening aspect of the saucer scene.

To me, this is the same phenomena as the soporific a mosquito injects before it bites. It is tactical, designed and carried out by an immense organization who are in fact taking over our planet. The device they use to apply the soporific is the one I have written about as the TELAUG in many of my stories. TELAUG is short for telepathic augmentive device.

People and government officials are myopic about UFO because their minds are affected by the telaug.

When a saucer hovers over a car for a time, then takes off in a burst of speed...there is only one reason for the hover. No one but myself has ever given the reason any credence.

The reason a UFO hovers over someone is very plain to me, but to no one else, apparently. It hovers to get its bearings from the mind of the local inhabitant...who carries his directions and his knowledge of the locale in his head. The UFO doesn't need to go to the service station and buy a map...he picks it all up out of the nearest MIND.

The broad perspective of the past space traffic of the planet Earth is needed to appreciate the source of the UFO. If you read the rock books put out by the past races of mankind which litter our hillsides, (ignored even more that the UFO) you would know there are a whole string of planets out there in space from which the UFO come and to which they go.

They come to Earth for things surface men used to know about but which we have lost knowledge of in late centuries. They come for rock books, for one thing. And they come to enter cavern cities we don't even know exist...to buy antiques. They also come for parts for their ancient saucer ships...parts once manufactured here on Earth in our underground factories.

We must look very pitiful and helpless when they probe our minds for directions and find out we don't even know the telaug exists, or that Earth once manufactured saucer ships or anything about the ancient space routes they followed to reach Earth.

Pitiful, helpless, victims of ignorance...must be their thoughts as they speed off.

Unfortunately, I suspect their thoughts are more like the thoughts in the mind of a lamprey eel as he selects his next victim from the nearly extinct trout of the great lakes...not thought at all but a vicious sort of greed.

For the ships they drive were manufactured by our own race, long ago before the deluge plunged Earth into the darkness of worldwide ignorance. Their science is not their science, but our own, long ago. They don't have any to speak of.

How to get across what I know about the UFO and the broader aspects of the UFO invasion of our skies, our oceans and our underworld (of which we don't even know) to the average man has for me always presented an insoluble problem.

I know...but I can't get what I know accepted as fact, any more than any UFO sighter can get his story accepted as fact. There is always the element of doubt, even in photos of UFOs...and many a UFO photo is "suspected" as a fake.

Though I know the telaug operates in all our cities, and is behind such horrors as the Kennedy murders, the King murder, the Dag Hammarskjold murder, etc., I have found it impossible to get the picture accepted generally as the UFO themselves are accepted.

Today, now...I have pictorial proof quite as good as the UFO photos of saucers in our skies...but I don't expect any greater official acceptance of their factual nature than the UFO photos get.

The reason for official non-acceptance of UFO data is the telaug...holding the official mind into its rut of conservative insistence upon "more data", "more proof", and the official preference for explanations in place of action.

The truth is that asking officialdom for action about UFO data is very like a Jew asking the Hitler regime for mercy on the grounds that he has a family to care for. The storm troopers reaction is to go out and pick up the rest of his family. It is also like one great lakes trout asking another great lakes trout for some action about the lamprey eels. The fact is they both have a lamprey on their backs.

That lamprey is the telaug, operating them like a puppet is operated with strings. They CAN'T do anything about anything unless the puppeteer wants them to do it.

We are lucky we can talk this much about it. Not that such talk really does anything about the problem. Except to give the next UFO better bearings on the problem when he picks up his bearings from your mind.

Earth will never understand or accept the UFO invasion until it learns all about telaugs and adapts them into the life of the surface world as the radio has been adapted into our life.

I am really afraid there isn't much hope for us. We can't get anything much done for our own welfare as long as the telaug hampers every movement of thought, and as long as our leaders like Hammerskjold and JFK are murdered regularly.

A leader isn't much good to us dead.

What really worries me in this leader picture is that leaders like Stalin and Hitler live on an on, leading us all to death... while the good ones like JFK are murdered as soon as they get the reins in their hands.

This is the broad perspective of the UFO invasion...a steady insertion of murderous tactics and complete repression, via the telaug, into the picture of surface life on Earth.

The world wars present the same sort of picture when you think of them as really PUPPET wars, very like the Pied Piper of Hamelin leading the kids into oblivion.

Our world wars and our Biafra situations aren't really what they seem, you know. They are really the broad destruction of all forward growth in our society...to be replaced by utter mind slavery!

Mind slavery is the picture the UFO in our skies present! That this mind slavery is not new on Earth doesn't make the picture any more inviting to one who knows what is going on. The people on Earth, to me, are like a blind man in the toils of a python...he does not even know what is killing him!

We are like the lake trout of the great lakes...and we can't do a thing about the creatures that are killing us...just as they killed the Kennedy brothers and Dag Hammerskjold and a million others not so renowned...every one of us who puts out his hand toward the door of freedom of mind.

Freedom of mind, freedom of choice, individual mental existence is what is at stake.

And you won't win that freedom without the telaug.

And you won't win to space without the rock book plans for the building of your own space ships. □

GRAY BARKER AT GIANT ROCK

By Gray Barker

In the fall of 1970, Jim Moseley, Barbara Hudson and Gray Barker flew to Los Angeles and attended George Van Tassel's Flying Saucer Convention at Giant Rock. Barker gives you a run down on famous "contactees" he met such as Van Tassel, Trevor James, Orfeo Angelucci, etc.

He describes them and their stories of meeting people from outer space. You almost feel you are right there with Barker under the hot sun on the desert. Ten UFO personalities are interviewed and their favorite sighting is described with a dramatic full page treatment by the noted UFO artist, Hal Crawford. Also lavishly illustrated with photographs and other artwork throughout. A six-page section is devoted to strange writing, objects and faces that turn up in NASA photos of the moon and Mars, including an incredible map of the U.S. on the face of the moon. This book is Barker at his best! He has preserved the atmosphere of this and past conventions he has attended there so that UFO fans of the future can vicariously experience these fabulous meetings as if they were there themselves.

A CHALLENGE TO SPIRITUAL LEADERS

By GEORGE ADAMSKI

I am not looking to any governmental or military group, regardless of nation, to bring out the truth of the Space Visitors. If they did, they too would be questioned by the majority of the people and the whole thing would remain as controversial as it is today. It would be placed or left - (as at present) subject to a hostile interpretation in the minds of the many.

There is but one answer to a problem which is far from a small one, for this enigma of interplanetary visitations is of a universal aspect dealing as it does with universal principles. All phases of life are involved. We should be concerned with much more than merely the dramatic idea of flying through space in a man-made craft. That is a very minute part of the whole. Once this is realized, the coming of these craft establishes a substantiation for man's eventual destiny, which up to now has been but a hope. Not only that, but it is bound to broaden Earthman's consciousness into a more Cosmic conception, lifting him far above his present confining ignorance. In challenging him to think in terms of Cosmos and his relation thereto, he will forget the puny differences which have brought him to grief on this Earth through the ages.

The reality of these ships from other planets belong in the realm of the Cosmos. Therefore, those who could best bring forth the truth to the whole mankind and establish friendly relations between the visitors and ourselves would be the great religions of the world, united in at least this one purpose. Such union would inevitably lead to further unity in which the hairs of difference in creed and dogma would no longer seem worth splitting. I believe this whole phenomena has reached a point where it should be recognized as a fulfillment of long cherished dreams and hopes, whereby man once again will understand his relationship to the Cosmos itself.

Since the Church has taken on the responsibility of bringing to man an understanding of his relationship to his Creator, it would seem to be the Church's duty to proclaim the reality of these interplanetary visitations and the truth that surrounds them. This then would guarantee a reverent, instead of hostile attitude on the part of all peoples. In achieving this, the Church would then establish an understanding state of mind whereby definite visitations would follow, permitting our more evolved Brothers to give us more useful information of the Universe about which we as yet know so little. The Space Brothers could then be welcomed in in our homes and cities as friends and teachers.

Outstanding evidence in the teachings of all great religions to substantiate this possibility can be found. For example, one of the greatest religions, the Catholic, acknowledges that a human body born in this world can be taken elsewhere in earthly form to a place which they call Heaven. This is what is described in the resurrection of Jesus and, more recently, in their acknowledgement that the Virgin Mary left in this manner. Then there was Elijah who was carried off in a "Fiery chariot", and many other similar accounts.

The Lord's Prayer itself is an acknowledgement of a world or place called Heaven. "Thy will be one on Earth as it is in Heaven". If the Father's will can be done on Earth as it is in Heaven, it is an admission that bodies can be taken from this world in bodily form to some Nirvana in the skies. By the same token, it constitutes an acknowledgement that man could in bodily form, come from there to here.

Since the Lord's prayer asks that it be done on Earth as it is in Heaven, how could this be accomplished unless the heavenly-type being, man or woman, comes to earth from a happier abode and teaches us their way, that we might be enlightened sufficiently to establish our own heaven on earth, as they have done on their worlds?

All of the fingers point to the great religions, by whatever name they are known, as the responsible source to bring this Truth to mankind. Did not Jesus, himself, say, "In my Father's house are many mansions?"

If the great Churches fail their flocks in this case, they must shoulder the guilt for whatever may happen to mankind on Earth from here on. We are at the final crossroad. One of two things can happen. With the aid of these Visitors we can go on to become the greatest and the only enduring civilization this world has ever known - enduring because the people of the world will be united - or we can completely annihilate one another through atomic conflict, as is well known by all major scientists.

thus, the necessity for this proclamation of Truth regarding the reality of our interplanetary Brothers coming our way is far more serious than the average person can guess. Receptive minds and widespread coverage are musts in order that people throughout the world may understand what is at stake. Prophecy, as it has been written, will be fulfilled one way or the other; either the Kingdom of Heaven will be established on this Earth - or complete annihilation of Earth's inhabitants will be the inevitable result. The choice lies with Man himself. But the initial responsibility rests on the shoulders of the spiritual leaders throughout the world.

THE INVADERS

By TONY KIMERY

Did you ever stop to think how real the TV series, "The Invaders" was? How there were aliens walking around in black suits threatening saucer sighters and confiscating photographs and valuable data. Did you notice that the plots were real as to what is ACTUALLY happening today?

The series was more real than many wish to believe. Several people involved with the show were actively engaged in "deep" saucer work, one of the reasons the show was given the go-ahead. Several of those same people were threatened also...and not by the actors who played a similar role as "threateners", but by the real Men In Black themselves.

Roy Thinnes (who played the lead part as David Vincent), was threatened. He commented, "I have no comment other than the fact, that there is more truth behind the TV plots than most people realize."

Thinnes had been threatened by our friends on many occasions when the show dealt with matters "too hot to handle". Exclusive data was reported that shortly after Thinnes had married and the series got deeper and deeper into everyday truth, he mysteriously disappeared for two weeks. When he showed up finally, his wife reported that he acted strangely, even to the point to where she often felt that it wasn't really her husband.

Later, Thinnes resigned and the show was cancelled, using the excuse that it was due to poor viewer ratings, which was untrue. There were more people that enjoyed it than didn't. As a matter of fact, many people requested that the show be brought back on if they had to get a new actor to play the part of David Vincent.

Thinnes has actually observed strange objects. He reported that, "It happened to me years ago, long before I ever dreamed of becoming the hero of a TV series about men from outer space. I wasn't even an actor at the time, just a guy knocking about and making my living at whatever odd jobs I could pick up."

"I was driving through the Arizona desert in an old wreck of a car, when suddenly the engine went dead. I got out and started to lift the hood to take a look at the engine, when I noticed a large circular object in the sky, hurtling into the distance at an incredible speed, giving off color waves, first green and then orange."

"It made two right-angle turns, and then shot suddenly straight up. Within two seconds it had disappeared completely from sight."

"It was because of this experience that I was so eager to play the role of "David Vincent" in the series, THE INVADERS."

If you had been watching every show that was produced, you would suddenly realize that it was so close to the truth it was hard to imagine. So close to the things that are occurring today in the UFO field, and then everything collapsed....the Men In Black started threatening them. Later, the show was taken off the air, even re-runs are hardly ever shown because of strict orders. Someone didn't want the public seeing the show!

BEWARE TRIANGULAR SPACESHIPS

By JOHN W. DEAN

"Blame it on TV, swamp gases, optical illusions or vivid imaginations, but five teenage youths swear they saw a UFO, Tuesday evening, Nov. 14, 1967." (Hutchinson News, Nov. 15/67)

A clear-cut view of a space ship was seen close-up by 5 very intelligent 9th grade basketball players who had been practising at the Sherman Junior High School until about 6 o'clock. These five lived south of the school so they walked home together. When questioned individually and collectively they gave similar reports.

The ship was going rather slowly over the south side of Hutchinson, Kansas, at a height of from 150 to 200 feet, which is really low. They agreed that it was triangular in shape with straight sides, with windows showing red and green lights. It came from the northeast, turned south, then west across Main Street and then north. It veered east about First Avenue North (a block from the school) and disappeared after they had watched it for more than 5 minutes.

The HUTCHINSON NEWS gave their names and addresses so I went first to the home of two of the boys. As we talked, the other boy and their father came in and excitedly said that they had seen the same ship again, 5 or 10 minutes previously, over approximately the same path. So there were 6 eye-witnesses, one an adult, and also many people who phoned to the school to assure the office that they too had seen the ship as the boys reported it.

I sent a copy of a sketch of the triangular ship to Robert Renaud, the Terran representative of the Korendians (he writes for them in the AFSCA magazine UFO INTERNATIONAL) and they reported that it was of Omegan origin, appropriated from Venus, dangerous and lucky no one was hurt. Then Renaud gave me a good drawing of one with sharp corners which he saw while out over the mountains on New England.

Renaud warned that such ships are extremely dangerous so it is well to recognize them as enemies and avoid them completely, i.e., don't shoot at them for any reason. There seems to be no planet named Omega, but Renaud said the headquarters of the Omegan empire is on Kaldan, the third planet of the star Sirius, the brightest star in the northern hemisphere which is 8.8 light years away.

I have seen several reports of triangular ships in other magazines and tried to get the warning printed but they seemed to fear that people would panic if they knew of the danger.

The story and a photo of the sketch was sent to James L. Hill of Seymour, Missouri. He said it was "a bad one" and had been seen over Hutchinson on several nights as though this might be a center for their activities. If anyone saw it and reported it to the NEWS I am sure it was not printed.

The NEWS report closes with: "Usually reliable sources - Reno County Sheriff's department, Hutchinson police dept., the FAA tower, and South Hutchinson marshal disavowed any knowledge of the UFO or any visitor from outer space. One or two of them even made choice remarks which can't be printed here."

Briefly summarized, the contributions of our law and order forces add up to nothing regarding many visits of enemy scout ships and if those 'forces' are supported by the NEWS and radio ridicule, it leaves the way wide open for the surprise attack when the space enemies will take over the whole world.

We will be utterly defenseless against their speed and weapons so it will be over in an hour, but even so, it will save the predicted panic for the immediate present.

Many spacecraft are seen in the Hutchinson area and not publicized.

A flock of nine unidentified ships of unique design were seen at close range over Highway 50, four miles west of Hutchinson, on March 22, 1967. The lady who saw them said they slowed down for 45 seconds as they passed over her as she got out to observe them and then they dashed away as though they were putting on a show just for her. No doubt people in the jet plane above and beyond them also had a close look.

One evening, a few months later, the same lady saw one hovering for several minutes a mile west on the south side of Highway 50.

The NEWS did give a very friendly report of three young people in a car, coming south on a road north of the village of Medora, about 8:30 p.m. on November 22, 1963. It almost played hop-scotch over their car as it leaped back and forth over them about 15 feet from the ground, even landing briefly at one time as they met another auto which had to maneuver sharply to avoid a collision. It was round, not triangular. The young folks were not frightened and their car was not stopped as is usual in such events, so it was probably playing with them. It may have been over Hutchinson and then on its way back to a retreat in the sandhills north of town.

(Mr. Dean is the author of FLYING SAUCERS AND THE SCRIPTURES and FLYING SAUCERS---CLOSE UP)

These two words have been knocked from one end of the UFO world to the other. Often being used by those who did not appear to understand what they were really talking about. Like many other phrases and words that are used by well-meaning but inexperienced students of the UFO phenomenon. The most vital issues of this whole problem are very little understood because too much attention has been paid to the sightings and not enough to the really important things that matter:

a) Where do they come from? b) Why are they here? c) What of the future and our relationship with the other more intelligent members of the universe?

Before we can even begin to discuss the two words at the heading of this article, several important things must be recognized without question:

1) We are not alone in the universe. 2) We are responsible to greater forces outside our own backyard. 3) Whatever we do on this planet can possibly affect them.

4) What they do on their planet can possibly affect us. 5) Regardless of what we may do or think, we are (like it or not) bound by laws of a universal nature that existed for many billions of years before this Earth came into existence. I am not asking for anyone's opinion on that particular point. I am simply making a statement. Therefore, if we on this planet overstep the boundaries, we can expect to be put or pulled smartly into line. By we, I mean those various groups who either independently or singly work towards ends that do not benefit the whole human race but a chosen few, not chosen by universal or cosmic intelligence but by the few who believe that financial and spiritual power, as exemplified on this planet, are the only things that matter.

During the years 1945 up to the present we have seen a continual and steady growth of vicious weeds known as atomic and hydrogen bombs, and power through the unnatural division of atoms. When opposing particles are forcible and not of their own free will thrown together, they must react in a violent way. Man and his so-called sciences is mostly ignoring nature because he does not really know that it exists. It has been said that our friends up top will not and cannot interfere. I now challenge that idea with a simple but self-explanatory example:

"A family is sitting quietly at home in front of a fire (be it coal or log). The father notices that his son likes to push a poker into the fire. Naturally he advises his son that it is dangerous to do so but his son, not realizing the truth, continues to play with the fire. Finally the father realizes that his son will only learn when he burns his fingers, but he will make sure that his son will not burn down the house."

We on this planet have played with our atomic toys. We have been advised of the dangerous results that we can receive. We have had our fingers burnt. Now the real danger exists that the house (this Earth and this solar system) will be burned down with our matches. So, other higher intelligences are watching because we, the children of Earth, are starting to grow up but heading towards the wrong road. We cannot be allowed or permitted to tread that road.

There must be, and is, a limit beyond which any evil force can be permitted to proceed because if it is allowed to do so, it can do harm from which there is absolutely no recovery.

Personally, I cannot agree with those who say that no matter what, our friends up top would not interfere. There must be a point beyond which no evil force can be permitted to go. If we have learned anything from history, it is that if peace on Earth is to continue, we cannot sit by and allow ourselves to be pushed into the mud. Some of our UFO believers seem to think that.

Even though our Space Visitors are perhaps thousands and millions of years ahead of us, they cannot display an intelligence beyond our own mental capabilities. They will be forced to interfere in our future because our future involves their own.

THEY KNEW TOO MUCH ABOUT FLYING SAUCERS

By Gray Barker

First published in 1956, this book may be the most exciting UFO book ever written. It became a best seller and an instant classic. It has influenced thousands of UFO researchers, and given others sleepless nights and hair-raising suspense.

THEY KNEW TOO MUCH primarily deals with the closing of Al K. Bender's International Flying Saucer Bureau by three men dressed in black and the threatening of other UFO researchers by strange persons. Many didn't believe Barker and his warnings about saucer information being suppressed. In the late 60's, a rash of MIB reports broke loose, were widely investigated by John A. Keel and reported in his books. Barker's theories were confirmed!

THE SIERRA CHICA CASE By GUILLERMO ALDUNATI

Sierra Chica is a famous town located near Olavarria, Buenos Aires, due to its well known prison. Not far from here towards Tapalque, lives an experienced farmer, Antonio Iriart, who lives there with his family.

One foggy morning (not uncommon in the July season), Iriart's son, Oscar, aged 15, was inspecting a wired field on horseback, when he saw two persons trying to attract his attention by means of signals. He galloped toward them thinking they were two lost hunters.

Then a sensational thing happened. Quite strange to Oscar, a thought-transferring session began with the two strangers whose dialogue and words he tried to reconstruct afterwards. According to his information, the men were as tall as an ordinary man, very similar, wearing colored clothing and through their strange dialogue, a telepathic one, they said to him: "You will know the world very soon, we promise."

Oscar answered, "Yes, I will know it but just when I have money." Again they said in telepathic form, "No, we will take you. We can't do it now because we have too much of a load."

They pointed to an object settled near a muddy ditch, just like a flying saucer. Then they gave him an envelope with a written message on it, asking him to put it into the water (to show its water repellent condition), so he obeyed. Sure enough, neither his hand nor the envelope became wet. After this amazing proof, both men went into the strange device and disappeared quickly.

After this, the boy rushed home on the same horse and showed his mother the strange paper and told her all the story.

The place was inspected afterwards by neighbors, newspapermen, UFO fans and a cameraman from "El Popular" of Olavarria. They found three small indentations 12 centimeters in depth, framing a perfect isocetes triangle, corresponding to three legs which were seen under the flying saucer by Oscar. Further investigations are being undertaken.

THE SAUCER ENIGMA CONTINUES

By ARMAND A. LAPRADE

To the thousands of people who have seen flying saucers or other unidentified flying objects of various shapes and sizes - flitting, hovering, maneuvering, etc., "they" remain a puzzling mystery to them. Where do these colorful aerial voyagers come from? What do they want? Do flying saucers exist at all?

Twenty-three years have passed since Kenneth Arnold spotted what he called "flying saucers," while flying in the vicinity of Mt. Rainier, in 1947. People all over the world are still seeing them. Some have claimed riding in these objects - visiting the moon - even planets. As the number of reported landings increase, so grows the list of contacts and contactees.

The Air Force investigation of UFOs only resulted in confusing the public, rather than enlightening them. Some of the AF explanations of sightings were "further out" than the saucers themselves!

During the 1950's the AF denied the existence of UFOs, hoping that they would go away, I guess. They didn't, so the denial changed to: "The Air Force has no evidence that UFOs are extraterrestrial or represent advanced technology of any kind" - official AF statement.

In November, 1966, the public felt that a plausible explanation or solution of the UFO enigma would be coming soon, due to the Colorado Project, headed by a scientist - Edward U. Condon. At long last, thought the public, a scientific evaluation. Yes, a scientific investigation, sponsored by the Air Force! Well, I will not go into detail relating the much publicized fiasco, which seemingly resulted in confusing the public once more.

During the Project (Field Study - 1966-1968) there were many sightings and landings reported. Very few were investigated by the "Project" it seems, whereas Dr. J. Allen Hynek managed to get to the scene or area where such events had occurred in various parts of the country. He even went all the way to Canada to investigate a UFO sighting which intrigued him - at his own expense! Yes, Dr. Hynek does get around.

In February of 1967, a UFO report from Peru, came in to the VFON (Volunteer Flight Officer Network). A bright light appeared near an airliner at about 7,000 feet, then moved to a point directly above the aircraft and hovered there. The passengers got rattled, the lights dimmed, the compass went haywire and all radio reception was lost. But transmission did not cut out. The pilot who reported the sighting was guaranteed anonymity by the VFON and by Dr. Condon!

It is interesting to note that between 1962 and 1967, the following was reported by the VFON - 14 re-entering space objects (at least half were Russian), 721 meteors and fireballs, 4 ballistic missiles in flight, 4 upper atmosphere sounding rockets, 16 naked-eye visible satellites in orbit, ONE weather balloon, and...20 Unidentified Flying Objects! (Dr. Condon expressed a desire, at that time, 1967 - to have the flight crew's close-up eye-witness reports of any UFOs.) Could the flying saucers (some) possibly be due to "swamp gas?" Did Dr. Condon possibly see a "swamp gas saucer?" Let us look at the following report from Washington, D.C.:

Scientists think they may have the answer to the mystery of flying saucers, and if their theory is right, they are a particular kind of freakish physical phenomenon, not spaceships from another planet. In the early part of 1967 they tested this theory by igniting ammonia vapor with a high-voltage spark. The result was a mass of glowing gas which quickly assumed the shape of a disc-shaped object about one inch in diameter. As more tests ensued, some of these disc-shaped objects gave the appearance of having tiny windows around the rim, hovered in one spot for some minutes, darted about erratically, then, seemed to soar off or broke up.

Dr. Robert S. Powell, who heads the small group of scientists working at a privately-financed laboratory (Melpar Incorporated in Falls Church, Va.) said, "The thing" (as they call it) could also be tracked on radar and produces a "charge field" that could affect radio performance nearby. He also said that the gases involved in creating an artificial "saucer" are similar to those sometimes found in nature, often given off from newly fertilized fields or from swamps. The spark needed to touch it off could be produced by lightning, or a power line, he added.

Although the Condon Project was aimed at investigating people (including contactees) rather than the saucers themselves, the committee seemed to pick out only the definite crackpot cases, the $500,000 answer! □

THE PROJECTIONISTS By RICHARD S. SHAVER

I know that a lot of UFO sightings are really only projections, there is really no saucer present.

However, that is not always true... but when a genuine UFO is present...it was in ancient times customary battle tactics to use a number of solidographic projections as evasive tactics. In fact, the way ray weapons are built they don't miss ...and the only practical evasion was this duplicate projection in numbers.

So...FLEETS of UFOs when seen are as likely as not ONE real UFO hiding among a series of projections.

The whole subject of ray phenomena as well as UFO phenomena...is in fact PROJECTION work...just as ghosts boil down to projection work...and most psychic phenomenon turn out to be projection work when investigated capably... often with modern devices.

BUT the mechanisms used to make these projections in 3-dimensions are themselves related to the UFO phenomena in that they are pre-deluge in origin...the product of past civilizations long vanished.

Corroboration for this can be obtained by studying Fort's chapters on this type of spectral phenomena...and the same is true of many accounts of psychic phenomena.

Another fact that bears out the projection (fact) is the impossibly tight turns. Often at right angles at high speed...the g's would crush any normal pilot. Only a projection can make this sort of maneuver... but the average UFO observer accepts it as a genuine solid object... which it is NOT...it is a projection.

So it is with some faces in photos... there are always some in nature in all photos...but they are of two kinds. ONE... natural apparitions called "Accidentals"... and unnatural appearances that are in fact projected with the antique mechanisms from the buried cities underground.

If you still haven't accepted the facts...a study of this angle of UFO phenomena should help to convince you of the spectral or projection source of many UFO sightings...same is true of psychic stuff.

Cloud pictures...are sometimes "Accidental" and sometimes are projections ON the clouds...of such a nature they seem to shape the cloud and paint with the cloud material itself...and I have often talked with underground people by watching clouds and what they have to say they illustrate with cloud paintings as they go...this cloud painting was in fact a favorite pastime of the ancient peoples and such devices stand about in the buried cities waiting for someone to use them.

The whole panorama of "phenomena" is so inter-related with the far past and the surviving apparatus in the hermetically sealed cities (most buried cities were hermetically sealed by floods of sea bottom mud) is the reason the metal and perishables survived the ages of time that passed...they are hermetically sealed by the mud flows.

Just like a tin can...many things survived until today because protected from all corrosion by the mud seal.

Thus the flood supply of the billions of people who inhabited the buried cities...was left behind in storehouses and hermetically protected from decay...quite by "accident"... due to the rivers of mud dredged up by the mile-high tidal waves and deposited everywhere...which few people today understand... and is the real food supply down there.

Stored food meant for multitudes...was never used after they evacuated...and was protected hermetically by chance...since broken into this ancient stored food is the base of underground livelihood.

So with saucers...and so with projections from ancient devices...it is mere chance that protected it all from time's corrosion.

Just as jars of honey in the pharaohs tombs were still usable...and just as grains of wheat brought out of tombs still sprout... so in the long buried cities many things survived that one would not expect to find.

So don't think UFO and UFO sightings are separate from the Shaver cavern "theories" (which are not theories but facts I know) because you can't separate them...they interlock.

HUMANS, HUMANOIDS & UFOs By KENNETH LARSON

It is estimated that the San Luis Rey skull is about 7.5 million years old. The skull was that of Homo Erectus. According to W.L. Atwood, Baytown, Texas, the people who dug up the human skull were searching for buried treasure. These results were not totally unexpected; other investigators had detected evidence that humans were in America many millions of years ago.

This evidence suggests, among other things, that Homo Sapiens did not descend from anthropoidal apes. Objects dating back to the early Miocene epoch are being found in Texas and called "eoliths," meaning dawn stones. A number of investigations showed that they had been cut and transported to the place where found. This is the bottom of the Trinity River in San Jacinto County, Texas. Those in one group were full of fossils dating back from 20 to 30 million years earlier.

The remains of Java man, now known as Homo Erectus and considered the direct precursor of Homo Sapiens, together with the bones of elephant, buffalo, deer, cats and otter are found mixed with nut-sized tektites in sediments deposited in Java 700,000 years ago. Tektites have been discovered in core samples of the bottom taken off Australia and Tasmania, in the Philippines area, near Japan and in the Indian Ocean. Tiny spherules and other dumbbell shapes make up the glassy meteorites known as tektites. The tektites seem to have been laid down in deep-sea sediments dating back to the time of the last geomagnetic reversal of the Earth. This immediately points to a common cause, possibly an encounter between the Earth and some massive cosmic body.

Billy P. Glass and Bruce C. Heezen (Tektites and Geomagnetic Reversals) described these objects in the July, 1967, issue of the Scientific American magazine. This evidence suggests that the Earth has been subject to massive cosmic collisions at frequent intervals, and that it may be due for another major encounter.

Be this as it may, let us consider the statement made by W.L. Atwood: Homo Sapiens did not descend from anthropoidal apes. He is of the opinion that humans were in America many millions of years before they made their appearance in Africa, Asia or Europe. The artificial eoliths seemed to date back to a period of 20 or 30 million years earlier. Who carved these massive stones? We can only speculate about this evidence, but certain items of information give us some idea of what may have happened during ancient times.

It is possible that a cosmic collision caused large-scale destruction, and it could have raised a tidal wave that swept over the lands of the world. These events may explain our gaps in ancient history. In this case it is interesting to note Charles Robert Darwin's inferences regarding man's descent from lower forms of life. The geological record, ranging in a temporal succession covering something like a million years, seems to lead from ape-like creatures with brains hardly larger than those of a modern gorilla to beings very much like Homo Sapiens.

It is generally supposed that the Hominidae arose in the geological period called the Miocene--about 20-30 million years ago--from a common ancestral stock which also gave rise to the anthropoid ape family. However, no convincing evidence has yet been found for any stone artifacts older than the beginning of the Pleistocene.

It seems evident, therefore, that a very long period of time happened between the segregation of the Hominidae as an independent line of evolution and the point in its progressive development at which the words "man" and "human" can be applied. This extended period can be called the prehuman phase of hominid evolution.

W.L. Atwood reasoned that humans were in America many millions of years before they made their appearance in Africa, Asia or Europe. He was of the opinion that Man could not have descended from New World monkeys if only because of the differences between the teeth. This evidence suggests that Homo Sapiens did not descend from anthropoidal apes. How do we explain the early humans discovered in America?

It is of course hazardous to speculate on facts so few and so uncertain. If, however, humans were in America many millions of years before they appeared in Europe or Asia, and if we can take the evidence of the eoliths and the ancient skulls, then we could expect to find new evidence for early Man.

It seems plausible that some species of early Man may have been introduced to the Earth. For example, we have many records concerning the phenomenon known as Unidentified Flying Objects. The possibility that UFOs were associated with early Man was suggested to the writer as he was studying the records of ancient civilizations. During the reign of Thutmoses III (circa 1450 B.C.) unidentified "circles of fire" hovered over the ancient land of Egypt. In A.D. 1461, a whirling object hovered over a town in France and then flew upwards before disappearing.

The Japanese have legends concerning unknown aerial objects that landed during ancient times. The occupants of these vehicles were said to have taught the people new ways of agriculture. We can only speculate about the identity of the visitors, but it is possible that extraterrestrial beings visited the planet during the past.

It seems entirely possible, then, that the modern UFO reports may have some relationship to the ancient sightings. During November, 1896, a cigar-shaped object flew over San Francisco, Calif., and headed east-northeast. A few minutes later, a similar object flew over Red Bluff--about 162 miles to the north. From these facts it has been deduced that when the UFO left San Francisco it followed the Sacramento River up to Red Bluff. In fact, another UFO appeared 18 miles south of Red Bluff on August 13, 1960. It was sighted and chased by two highway patrol officers. (San Francisco Chronicle, Aug. 17, 1960). The location was the Sacramento Valley town of Corning, California.

Two policemen and a bowling alley owner say that they saw a flying saucer on July 4, 1967. And where did they see it? Why, at Corning, Calif.! Officers Jim Overton and Frank Rakes were the two policemen. As Jay Munger put it: "I noticed something in the air over the highway. At first I thought it was an airplane. I put my coffee cup down and looked up again...the object was shaped like a big cigar and aluminum in color. There was not a sound coming from it at all."

"It had a huge white light on the top, very bright," Overton said. "Down at the bottom it had a smaller light. Around the center of the object there was a band, a kind of metal or paint...then as we walked it suddenly began to move. It moved with a most terrific burst of speed."

However, this isn't the only case of several UFO sightings over the same area.

The most puzzling UFO story of all time is the famous Maury Island event. Maury Island is located in Puget Sound, not too far from Mt. Rainier, Wash. On June 24, 1947, Kenneth Arnold had installed some fire-fighting apparatus in Chehalis, Wash. Arnold was flying a mountain plane and decided to look for a lost C-46 Marine transport. While making a turn near Mt. Rainier, a tremendously bright flash lit up the surface of his plane. Arnold observed far to his left and to the north, a formation of very bright objects coming from the vicinity of Mt. Baker. He said that they moved at tremendous speed. The elevation of the first craft was greater than that of the last. They flew in a definite formation, but erratically. Another characteristic of the crafts involved some fluttering and tipping of their wings. After landing at Pendleton, Oregon, Arnold estimated a speed of over 1,700 mph. This was far above the limits of 1947 aircraft.

In another case, Capt. E.J. Smith and co-pilot Ralph Stevens of United Airlines said that they saw nine UFOs near Boise, Idaho. This was on July 4, 1947.

Exactly 20 years later, two policemen saw the UFO over Corning, Calif. (July 4, 1967). Seven years earlier, two policemen saw another UFO over Corning (Aug. 13, 1960). And a similar cigar-shaped object flew over this area on November 24, 1896!

In his book called THE COMING OF THE SAUCERS, Arnold tells about the UFOs over Maury Island. According to his report, several objects hovered over the beach and dropped some metal pieces on the ground. This happened on June 21, 1947. However, this entire episode generated a great amount of controversy as to whether it actually happened. Three days later, Arnold reported the nine UFOs over Mt. Rainier.

The following report came from Seattle on June 4, 1967. (Seattle, Tacoma, Maury Island and Mt. Rainier are all in the same area.) Deputy Sheriff T.C. Allman said that about 15 persons saw UFOs. The first sighting he knew about occurred on April 7, 1967. Most of the sightings were reported in the Maury Island area.

"The animals have just gone completely crazy," Allman said. "Horses, cows, dogs and ducks have been running around". The disturbed animals have been in the area where the UFOs were reported. Some of the sightings were over radio stations and a NIKE missile site.

The only reasonable conclusion that can be drawn is that these UFOs have some relationship to the 1947 objects at Maury Island. The animals seem to have been affected by some type of energy.

On November 2, 1957, large egg-shaped objects landed on the highways and fields of Levelland, Texas. According to the police, these objects cut out the lights, radios and ignitions of automobiles.

On this basis, the UFOs seem to have some type of energy related to electromagnetism. There have been cases where UFOs hovered over electrical stations and power lines. In fact, a report out of Russia concerned the electrical system of a missile base. At first, the crew had fired at the hovering UFO but could not seem to hit the object. After the second salvo, the UFO knocked out the electrical instruments controlling the missiles. This was said to have happened during 1961.

Unfortunately, we do not know the extent of ancient UFO reports. Our knowledge is based on the legends and written records of various cultures. James McDonald, a scientist at the University of Arizona, thinks that the UFOs are conducting an aerial survey of the Earth. However, why should UFOs wait until this time in order to survey the planet? Perhaps they have complete knowledge of this planet's origin and history. Again, the UFOs may have had something to do with the construction and forming of the Earth. Although scientists seem reluctant to consider the tenets of religion, we should consider the possibility of a special creation by a Higher Intelligence. In other words, some of the UFOs may be representative of a Higher Intelligence in the universe. Finally, we should consider the origin of Man on the Earth. The UFOs may have an advanced knowledge of science and the true nature of the universe.

On the other hand, the UFOs may be aware of some unprecedented series of events. On August 2, 1967, the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee reported that Communist China may be able to attack the United States with nuclear rockets by the early 1970's. It added that this country had no means to repel such a strike. The committee predicted that China will have a deliverable missile warhead by about 1970. Have the UFOs noticed our testing of atomic weapons? Are they aware of the danger of nuclear war between the nations of Earth?

On April 24, 1949, scientists at the White Sands, New Mexico, testing site sighted and tracked a high-flying UFO. Next, they determined that the object had a velocity of seven miles per second! The world's first atomic test happened in this area. Furthermore, two military patrols spotted a UFO near the atomic bunkers on Nov. 3, 1957.

The Air Force has not been able to solve the sighting made by policeman Lonnie Zamora. The officer said that he saw a UFO on the ground near Socorro, N.M. (about 30 miles from White Sands). Not only that, Zamora claimed to have seen two small beings enter the object. The date was Apr. 24, 1964.

Inevitably the American public is becoming more interested in the UFOs. A recent Gallup poll showed that five million Americans claimed to have seen flying saucers. Furthermore, James McDonald spoke on the subject of the UFOs before the Outer Space

Affairs Committee of the U.S. (June 7, 1967) UFOs are a major problem, says McDonald. Leo Sprinkle, a scientist at the University of Wyoming, suggests that we should study the objects from every possible angle. Dr. Edward Teller, the atomic scientist, has been quoted as saying that the UFOs represent a "scientific miracle."

UFOs may represent various phases of scientific technology and religious phenomena. The many worldwide reports seem to suggest a higher type of technology. In two cases (1959 and 1967), the witnesses said that the UFO occupants exchanged waves and seemed friendly. However, these occupants may have been robots. Thus, we find ourselves still confronted with the idea of "creation" by a Higher Intelligence.

Through the sightings of UFOs, one is kept aware of the challenge to all limits. Ever since 1947, the reports have made us think and wonder. This is healthy. We are beginning to explore the moon and the planets. What will happen if we encounter the records of an extraterrestrial race? Last but not least, James McDonald thinks that we have already discovered the evidence of an extraterrestrial race. □

UFO ACKNOWLEDGES SIGNAL

By DORIS FICKELSHER

On September 26, 1968, between 9-9:30p.m. at 1623 Gowans Road, Angola, N.Y., Earl Fickelsher went outside to go pick up his eldest son from a Scout meeting. It was at this time he spotted a brilliant object and walked into its beam which was sweeping directly on the front of the house and porch. The bright light had a searchlight and was sweeping the area. As soon as he walked into its beam, it swung its light up on the clouds between our house and over the field we garden in. Earl called me and I ran out, grabbing our flashlight, by this time Earl was in the driveway by his car and I joined him to watch the object.

It was in very slow motion and approaching while scanning the clouds as if looking for an opening in the clouds or something. It had obviously seen Earl. We watched for a few minutes then I decided to send it a signal to see if it would respond. (dit, dit, dash). I no sooner sent this signal than the UFO began to fade out. The beam went out immediately, like somebody snuffing out a candle slowly. It shot up through a cloud opening so fast that we couldn't see it anymore. We thought we had ruined a chance to communicate and observe the light. I felt so disgusted for fouling things up.

Earl decided to leave to get our son and told me to keep watching and keep sending the signal anyway. I did! He wasn't half-way up our road when to the left of our driveway it responded with the exact signal I'd sent a few minutes before! The signal responded from this object was visible by two red light signals short and one blue long through the clouds. I could not see the object at this time only its light signal. This continued for eight minutes on both our parts answering each other. Its signal lights kept appearing a little to the left, further from the former one, making a half circle around our home until it reached the back left side of the house. Then it stopped sending. At this time I sensed they were still there or near by. I had a strong urge to enter the house, shut off our backyard spotlight and call Mrs. M, our next door neighbor to come over.

I did so and ran back out into the middle of the driveway. My neighbor met me and I told her what had just happened.

We continued to search the sky (very cloudy) and kept sending the same signal as before. Within a few seconds a dull yet strong circular light appeared above our heads then a second joined the first and they began to circle above us twice very fast.

It made us dizzy to watch and at each completed circle they seemed to merge as one big light. The third time they circled in opposite directions once then they separated - one settling above the front top of the house, the other toward the telephone pole on the front lawn near the road.

Then they seemed to become part of the clouds and couldn't be seen any longer.

This light-like object was like someone had a powerful spotlight inside the clouds and it became transparent. It's hard to explain unless actually seen as we have.

There was no sound at all from the beginning to the end of the sighting. The object when first seen was no less than 800 feet from the ground and no higher than 1,000 feet.

It appeared to be about 60 feet in diameter. This would be for the light itself for it was so bright that we could not discern the shape of the craft or anything except the circular glow or light we saw.

Its beam gave off during the scanning time was powerfully long and lighted up the area like day time.

Each one of us left the area and felt at ease with a happy expectation of something but didn't know what or why.

It was just as though we were with a friend or friends. We all agreed upon this feeling.

We sensed it was unusual but friendly! As hard as this may sound, it's all TRUE!

Visibility this night was very cloudy but what we saw stuck out so clearly that no mistake could have been made.

REASON OR RIDICULE

By LEO BARTSCH

Knowledge has been increased, yet we are in a world of spiritual darkness. In Ireland Catholic and Protestant hate each other in the name of Christ, because it is easier to ridicule than to reason. If you accept the Bible and someone had told you that Christ is coming back on a white horse because Rev. 19:11-14 says so, would you reason or ridicule? (really now). The great Apostle Paul was ridiculed, even jailed and run out of town for prophesying salvation through Christ; or he talked too much about a voice from the sky and a bright beam of light which knocked him down. (Acts 26:13)

Elisha was ridiculed about the flying chariot of Israel (2 Kings 2:12 and 23). And now we have so many conflicting religions and all from one book. The Bible tells me Christ will come back with clouds, angels, whirlwinds, white horses, fire, saints and chariots. Of course this is symbolic of some types of God's powerful (living) flying wonders, which we do not yet understand any more than we understand flying saucers or UFO.

I was inspired to write this when someone quoting the Bible ridiculed the theory of Christ coming back in a flying saucer, when this same someone cannot even tell you what they are. What if these UFO or flying saucers ARE the chariots of God (Psa. 68:17) or the clouds of heaven, or the flying roll, or the star of Bethlehem, or the wheel within a wheel; which are just a few of God's flying wonders. Yet some make flying saucers (which are symbolic) sound like a dirty word because the far-out cults, kooks, or counterfeits who try to make a fast buck out of this UFO phenomenon only hurt the UFO study, just as man's organized religion hurt all churches as Jesus said... hypocrites worship in vain, teaching doctrine and commandments of MEN, (Mark 7: 6-8). Read Ezekial chapter 34, the shepherds get fat on the sheep but feed not the flock, (so blame not the sheep).

Where is God's Remnant (last remaining) church described in Rev. 12:17? If you find it let me know! God said he (not man) will shew wonders in Heaven above (Acts 2:19); and Jesus said fearful sights and great signs shall there be from heaven.. When we see these things, Jesus said "LOOK UP" (or do not ignore) Luke 21:11-28.

Yet UFO investigations, even organized religion, ridicule Bible answers to the UFO mystery even after admitting the supernatural performance of UFO. "WHY?" When Jesus says LOOK UP you can be sure the great deceiver (Satan) will do anything (through man) to keep you from looking up; yes anything.

The U.S. Air Force spent half-a-million dollars on one UFO investigation which backfired into a scientific revolution.

"WHY?"

Because it was easier to ridicule than to investigate!

THE NEGATIVE FORCE

By ZIOFRAN

As in the pre-space-age times, despite the frightened sheep-minded confused thinking of the negative majority of the most intelligent life-manifestation on this particular planet (Earth), the work of the Positive Light Intelligences continues.

Their concepts and knowledge come to you in a form recognizable to you, and suited to the scientific-spiritual environment of your times, as it was in the days of the ancients.

To understand and accept these concepts is to raise your vibrational level, which can only be accomplished by losing your negative concepts and keeping negative, fearful thoughts from your minds.

To defeat the powerful Negative force which is closing its grip on this planet in both visible and invisible forms, it is necessary to begin by lighting the dark places. You think because you cannot see this force, this monstrous dark thing, that it is not there? It is there and it is very real!

You have attracted this to yourselves by your unwillingness to learn. You have built for yourselves a chamber of horrors, which you dare to call a world, a civilization.

By doing this you are experiencing what always happens to those who open the door to the Pit. Not only in your UFO experiences but in all situations in your world.

Only by closing the door to Darkness and opening your minds to the waiting Light will you accomplish that which you seek to do, and know that which you would know.

On October 21, 1954, a housewife by the name of Jennie Roestenberg living in Ranton, England, claimed that she and her two young children witnessed at close range a dull-colored object hovering directly above their home. Through transparent panels she was able to see "two men with white skin, long hair to their shoulders and very high foreheads."

She continued by stating that they were dressed in "transparent helmets and turquoise blue ski suits." The object hovered at a tilted angle while the two occupants surveyed the scene "sternly, not in an unkindly fashion, but almost sadly, compassionately."

Students of contact cases can quite easily link these "spacemen" to the type described by the late George Adamski as well as by lesser-known contactees. If the sighting is true, it naturally boosts Adamski's claims of meetings with interplanetary visitors.

There are other various favorable pieces of evidence that confirm the Adamski story to a considerable degree. For instance, in describing his first look at outer space, while riding in a Venusian scout ship, Adamski stated: "I was amazed to see that the background of space is totally dark. Yet, there were manifestations taking place all around us, as though billions upon billions of fireflies were flickering everywhere, many in all directions, as fireflies do." (Page 76 of "Inside the Space Ships") When John Glenn made his orbital flight on Feb. 20, 1962, he returned from his flight with a story of seeing particles in space, which he called "fireflies". In the March 9, 1962 issue of LIFE magazine, John Glenn was quoted as follows:

"There, spread out as far as I could see were literally thousands of tiny luminous objects that glowed in the black sky like fireflies. I was riding slowly through them, and the sensation was like walking backwards through a pasture where someone had waved a wand and made all the fireflies stop right where they were and glow steadily..."

A publication issued by the New Zealand Scientific Space Research reported that the photos from LUNA 9 which made a soft-landing on the moon in February, 1966, and the SURVEYOR on June 2, were quite similar to the descriptions of the moon given by Adamski in 1955 in his book "Inside the Space Ships". While viewing the moon from a distance of 40,000 miles through a special instrument, Adamski relates: "I noticed deep ruts through the ground and in some of the imbedded rock, which could have been made in no other way then by a run-off of water in times past... Part of the surface looked fine and powdery, while other portions appeared to consist of larger particles similar to coarse or fine gravel." He continues, "Many of the craters are actually large valleys, surrounded with rugged mountains, created by some past terrific upheaval within the body of the moon."

TIME magazine, Feb. 11, 1966, gave this account regarding the findings of LUNA 9: "Taken by a camera with a wide-angle lens from about ten feet above a porous, pumice-like surface, the pictures showed a barren, forbidding crust, littered with jagged rocks and tiny pebbles that the Russians later revealed were as small as one or two millimeters wide."

In the New Zealand Herald, June 3, 1966, comes this report regarding the area in which the SURVEYOR landed: "The terrain surrounding the spacecraft appeared somewhat like a rocky beach with small objects scattered on the surface. No small craters were immediately apparent and the surface appeared reasonably smooth and hard."

Comparing these descriptions as well as those given by the Apollo astronauts with those given by Adamski in 1955, we cannot but conclude that Adamski knew what he was talking about.

Adamski's photographs, which adorn the text of his three volumes that chronicled his saucer experiences, have never been scientifically refuted, nor can they be. P. Marley, ace cameraman for Cecil B. DeMille and a photographic expert, stated that "Adamski's pictures if faked are the cleverest ever seen, rivaling a Houdini...the shadows on these saucers and also on the ground correspond to such a degree that they could not be faked."

An Adamski-type craft was seen by F.W. Potter on Oct. 8, 1953, near Norwich, England. Other worldwide sightings of similar craft have been photographed by Cedric Allingham, Howard Menger, George Stock, Daniel Fry, Paul Trent, Robert Coe Gardner, George Van Tassel, and Stephen Darbishire of Coniston, England.

The Darbishire photograph, taken on Feb. 15, 1954, is perhaps the most unique in the annals of ufology. An orthographic projection made by Leonard G. Cramp, a member of the Interplanetary Society of England and an expert engineer, shows the "Coniston Saucer" has the exact proportions of the Adamski craft taken at Palomar Gardens, Calif. Coincidence in this instance is fantastic. So it seems reasonable to say there is a good case for George Adamski. □

FLYING CRESCENTS - THEN AND NOW

By REY D'AQUILA

Russia: From a press release issued by Dr. Felix Ziegel on July 18, Sept. 4, October 10, and other days in 1967, crescent-shaped objects have been observed over the northern regions of the USSR.

Reports came in from the mountain observatory of Kazan, apart from various private sightings.

Dr. Ziegel said: "The most characteristic UFO looked like a bright, flying crescent, flying with the convex part first (see sketch).

Outer contours were sharp, inner contours were vague and wavy. From one of the horns of the crescent came flames as with a jet plane. Or they could have been sparks. In many cases, the crescent was preceded by a bright flying disc and flanked by objects shining like stars of first magnitude, keeping a fixed distance (formation flight).

Kazan astronomers estimated the diameter of the crescent to be about 500-600 meters (quite a size) at a speed of 18,000 km/hour (which is 18 times faster than the new type Boeing 747 super aircraft now flying, driven by the "jumbo jet" with a speed capacity of only 1,000 km/hour. Dr. Ziegel said the UFOs were real things and not to be identified with any other known phenomenon.

SKETCH: We have tried to follow the description closely and have drawn a formation flight with all three types of objects involved, in the proper sequence. Contours are sharp outlined on the outside and vague and wavy on the inner side. Compare with sketch No.2. Same possibilities - bulk of matter in the center part.

CRESCENTS IN ANTIQUITY

Supposedly from cave wall paintings in the Jabaran Valley, Tassili, Sahara. This is a picture of a flying crescent with a human figure and a bull. The impression is, that the man (cowherd) is greeting the space ship, meaning a people of cowherds (nomads?) - which may have been the same people of hunters depicted on other paintings in the Jabaran Valley.

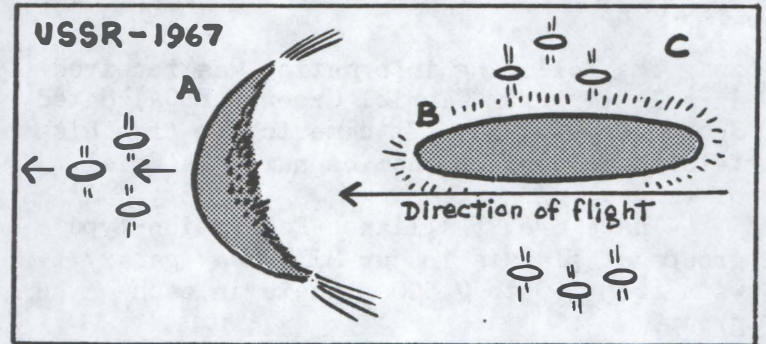

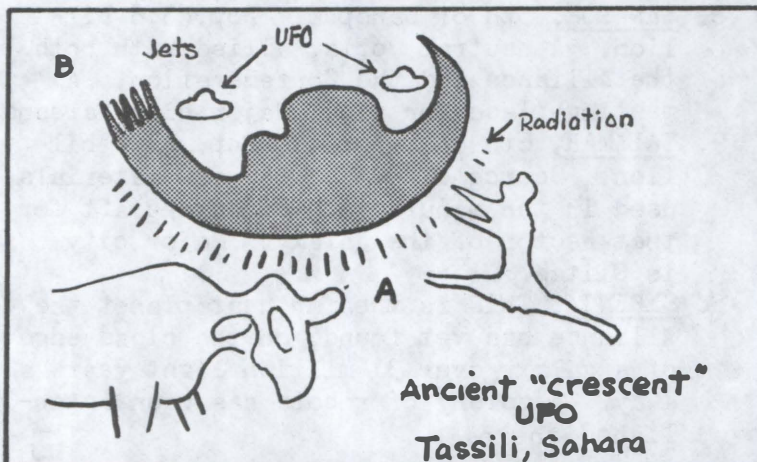

The spaceship in the middle was black all over like the small things to the left and right (within the horns), while the human being and the bull were comparatively dimly outlined. This stresses the SHIP as the important thing.

The ship is a typical UFO by the following characteristics:

1. Forcefield radiation on the bottom.
2. Jet or radiation on one of the horns (USSR crescents have "jets" on both horns).
3. Bell-shape of all three UFOs; putting the thing on its edge, one gets the same situation as in Russia - wavy center part, vaguely outlined.

There is hardly any doubt that the ancient artist has wanted to depict a space ship for its very UFO characteristics, which we can easily recognize today from the phenomena in our skies.

The small UFOs (bell-shaped) might have been "scouts" or at least "shining companions" (Russia) like stars of the first magnitude.

WE ARE NOT ALONE

By JOHN W. DEAN

The following information was received in a letter from Gabriel Green (AFSCA) dated September 9, 1969. It came to him from his telepathic contact whom he named as Oriel, of Venus.

There are 85 Alliance-Federation-type groups of planets in our Milky Way galaxy, with from 150 to 7,500 planets in each group.

Our galaxy is composed of about 8.5 million stars (suns) and 80 million planets. Of these, only 5 million are members of the 85 Federations.

Our galaxy is 30 million light years across, with the closest galaxy being 31 million light years away (from edge to edge). (I question these diameters and distances when compared to some given to me in the past from Korender via Robert Renaud, as about 100,000 light years diameter.) They located ZAKTON, the Tribunal Planet of the galaxy as slightly less than 75,000 light years away from them, and they are 411 light years from our sun. That would indicate that Zakton is 50,000 light years from the center and we are about 25,000 light years out from the center. I think most astronomers place us about one-third of the way out.

There are about 150,000 galaxies in the Universe, varying in size from 5 million to 100 million planets. The average size is 20 million planets and 25 million light years in diameter.

New planets are constantly forming and old planets and suns are dying, but the material Universe is gradually increasing. Although its diameter of 11.5 billion light years remains relatively static, there are presently about 3 trillion planets in the Universe.

From my MASTER LIST, given to Renaud by the Korendians, I find for the 75 well known stars listed that 15 have no planets. Of the other 60 suns there are 417 planets named and described as to diameters, days, years, and populations. Of them, 252 are inhabited and 165 are not, a ratio of 5 to 3.5. That would be a possible 2 out of the 3 trillion total. The populations given range from a few hundred to nearly 8 billion on Korender. I estimate one billion as the average. Multiply that by the 2 trillion inhabited and we have an estimated total of two sextillions of people. So we are not alone!

This list shows what a great organization is back of the Peace Treaty and is so concerned with our welfare. The number indicates rank, as given but there is no indication that their rank is of great importance. Here are the first few:

1. ALANDRA (Arcturia), 3rd planet of the star Arcturus, population 6.82 billion. Home of the Council of the Elder Masters, and major offices of the Alliance. The major city is Metrane.
2. KORENDER, 3rd planet of the star Korena, pop. 7.85 billion. Top scientific planet of the whole Alliance, one of the best in the galaxy. Home of NWDA and major industries. Major city is Vrell City.
3. ALITRA, 4th planet of Procyon, 1.23 billion. The World of Knowledge. Home of record archives, and information center of the Alliance. Major city Saranda.
4. MANDAKOR, 2nd planet of Zarolt, pop. 4.46 billion. It is Alliance Hdq for the M-31 galaxy. All activity there is controlled from Mandakor. Major city is Palzat.
5. ALVESTINA 12, 12th planet of Alvas (Eta Bootes). Pop. 3.98 billion. The control planet for the Universal Economic System. Financial center of the Alliance. Major city is Magrend.
6. ARGIAL 3, 3rd of Argial (Delta Herculis). Pop. 3.31 billion. Industrial giant of the Alliance. Also a major mining planet. Major city is Jansati.
7. DEMERAN, 4th of Canopus, pop. 4.53. Control planet for that section of the galaxy. Major city is Aarkasl. Canopus is the brightest star in the southern sky.
8. SANALOR, 5th of Canopus. Pop. 3.8 billion. A neutral world, allied with both the Alliance and the Confederation. A meeting place for all. Major city Faresne.
9. TALAMAR, 6th of Canopus. Pop. 4.59 billion. Source of 90% of the raw materials used in the manufacture of spacecraft for that sector of the galaxy. Major city is Olitas.
- ★ SERENIA, This is the farthest planet the Alliance has yet found, on the close edge of a galaxy over 31 million light years away. A colony of robots has been established there.

TWO UNIVERSES

By JOAN HOWARD

The Universe, visible and invisible, is in two main divisions - Positive and Negative. This applies to everything in both the physical and the non-physical. "Physical" is merely converted energy, divided into many different forms, all having the same base.

This applies to all matter, not just you or me or farmer Jones cow. It includes sticks, stones, bones, the Rocky Mountains, the Lakes of Killarney and the stuff from which the hydrogen bomb is made. The use to which any of these things is put by Man can be either Positive or Negative.

Man was given charge over the earth. This does not make him or it "superior" to anything. What Man does with this planet is his own choice. If he makes the wrong choice it is his own funeral.

Man no longer believes in Bible-type miracles, etc. Both Positive and Negative forces know this and use manifestations that will appeal to the "logical" minds of the twentieth century Man.

As a greater percentage of individuals are tuned in unconsciously, sub-consciously and even consciously, to lower vibrations of thought, thus a good percentage of UFO sightings, communications, etc., are of a Negative type. Naturally the Negs take full advantage of this. This has happened since the beginning of time. Read history, read the Bible and read your newspaper!

One of my contacts, Zolar, a psychologist, says this: "Some are aware of existence and some lead a beware existence."

STRANGE TRANSFORMATION

By HANS LAURITZEN

After my contact in the woods (see SS&S #58) I did everything possible to help my friends and everybody I met, as I have always done. Gradually I became aware that I had been lured by the UFOs.

I had complete confidence that they (UFO) were here to help us. Therefore I asked them to help humanity, and I offered to help them. The short telepathic conversation was good. They did not ask me to do anything. Instead they blacked out my consciousness and turned it on again later on in such a way, that I did not feel it at all and had no sense of having lost some time. Only by looking at my watch I realized that I was missing about 45 minutes or more.

Soon after the contact I realized that something had been done to my brain. A strong confusion arose so I could not discern right from wrong. Later it changed to an insane state urging me to do mad and wicked things.

After a few days I discovered that something had been done to my spine. Especially between the shoulder blades and in the neck I felt something hard and stiff. Then I discovered two scars on each side near my sexual organ. They soon disappeared and some of the skin scaled off. I felt something strange in my upper abdomen in the solar plexus area. I felt it swelling like it would explode. I became extremely afraid of these things. What had the UFOs done to me? Why had they done it? What was their purpose in doing so? What would people do to me if they knew it? Would they kill me?

Now a strange thing happens. When these things are done to such vital parts of a human being, they are included in the instinct of self-preservation. He will do anything to hide it and deny it.

I must admire those UFOs for their profound knowledge of the nature of human beings. If somebody should decide to tell, it might not mean so much. Those who have not got it themselves will not believe it and just say... that man is crazy. And those who have got it themselves know it is true, but afraid of being discovered they will say too...yes, that man is crazy. So this strange game on human beings continues unhindered.

If those UFOs came here with love and affection to help us, they would of course meet us openly. Now they do everything to hide away and make their activities secret. This shows that the UFOs do not come here with love. Not even with respect for the integrity of human beings. But what can we do?

When I began to wonder what all those things were made for, strong pains came in the spine, the neck and in the head. Something inside me tried to stop me each time I thought of telling the truth. That must be the reason why the contactees always tell something good about the UFOs. They are forced or controlled to do so.

It is clear that what the UFOs are doing to people is not to help them. They have their own reasons to do so, whatever that might be. If this invasion of something unknown into the bodies and brains of human beings is not stopped somehow, we might soon all be controlled by the UFOs.

When these things are done to such vital parts of a human, they are included in the instinct of self-preservation. People will never tell the truth. What a terrible world of silence, falsity, and lies are being made.

As my strongest wish is to serve humanity, I have decided to tell the truth although this should cost my life.

But there is not much reason to think that anybody will believe it apart from those who have also been treated by the UFOs. Some contactees have tried to tell the truth hidden in their stories. Adamski told us that there were 100,000 spacepeople working in governments and in other places. I know what he meant by "spacepeople" - people treated by the UFOs. Recently I have heard that there are now millions of "spacepeople".

A long time passed from the contact until I began writing about it. The reason is that I was not able to do it before. After some time I realized I had been lured by the UFOs. I sat down and began speculating on how and what the UFOs had done to me. Then the pains became so strong that I could hardly stand them. During the past 1½ years they drove me to the brink of suicide several times. For long periods I gave up thinking about it too much without seeing the connection. Then I became aware of the connection.

Sometimes when doing some ordinary work, thoughts about the UFOs came to me without actually engaging myself in the subject, as I was doing something else, and there were no pains. This was a challenge to my analytic mind. The difference is that when one is engaged in the thoughts, they are accompanied by an emotional state of mind. So the pain control could not feel the thoughts but the emotional state of mind. I sat down thinking of something else with an indifferent attitude. I kept that state of mind and wrote about

There is evidence to show that some of the UFOs come from the moon; that some of these spaceships were seen many times on/or near the lunar surface by astronomers and by the astronauts in circumlunar orbit; that some of the ufonites live prosperously inside the moon which is hollow.

A few years ago, a few astrophysicists theorized that the moon indicates its hollowness by some of its motions. A few recent findings seem to confirm this theory. All circumlunar orbiters were pulled out of their regular paths more or less by puzzling gravitational anomalies some of which were attributed originally to gigantic mass concentrations. But, the experts can't find what these masses are nor how they were formed.

In my view, since vast and deep caverns would have no gravity, the walls surrounding them would react like mass concentrations, by comparison.

Confirmatively, a vast amount of the data gathered by the seismometric station emplaced at Tranquility-Base-1 indicates, according to some seismologists, that the moon is honey-combed with great cracks and fissures reaching many miles toward the center, perhaps hundreds.

STRANGE TRANSFORMATION (Concluded from previous page)

the UFOs without engaging emotionally on the subject. And the pain control did NOT work. I also discovered that electric equipment induced pains in me. So I had to move them too.

Yes, some kinds of non-dynamic energies must be the same as would be called the electro-magnetic thought energy. The UFOs are pouring this non-dynamic energy into human beings probably concentrated in the areas they have treated. And the UFOs are pouring the non-dynamic energy into our electrical systems. This non-dynamic energy associates itself with magnetism and in particles especially with electrons because of their strong magnetic movement. When the non-dynamic energy associates with the electrons, their dynamic property is temporarily impaired, which causes a black-out in the area. It is then carried on to our electric equipment from where it radiates out to people.

Unfortunately it induces pains in various parts of the body and strange maladies against which our physicians cannot do anything.

The only advice to give is to stay away from electric equipment or better move out in the countryside where there is no electricity in the vicinity..

Not only contactees but also other people are hurt by the radiation, treated by the UFOs on desert places without knowing it, because the UFOs hide away so well. People just interpret it to be a mystic experience or a strange course of nature.

Some Ufologists say: "An informed public will not panic". However, how can we tell that the UFOs are doing something to people which even our most intelligent scientists cannot explain and which we cannot stop them from doing. How can this be told?

Of course the tension between the countries is dangerous. But far more dangerous is the invasion of these unknown things into human beings. If we do not find some way to stop it, humanity might soon be erased from this planet in a terrible catastrophe of cosmic dimension.

The UFOs are surrounded by strong force fields which cannot be penetrated by physical material and electromagnetic weapons.

Fortunately there is one thing which can penetrate these force fields and that is SOUND. So our chance to survive will be as soon as possible to develop powerful sonic, ultrasonic, supersonic, hypersonic weapons to defend ourselves against the UFOs before it is too late! □

WE'LL NEVER CATCH THEM

By ARMAND A. LAPRADE

I don't know how it started but it has intrigued mankind from the very beginning of time - that, I am quite sure of. We, the majority of us, are very curious. Curiosity is one of our greatest traits. It has led us to our present state of progress by way of error, luck and experimentation. Yet, many mysteries of old remain even today.

The U.S. Ghost Force, after 22 years of investigation and study, has closed its investigation on Ghosts. A Ghost Force spokesman said, "There's no reason why the government should spend a lot of money checking up on ghosts; it has already spent millions on this project." He also said, "Nobody has produced a shred of solid, credible evidence to support the idea that ghosts exist at all."

Ghosts? Did I say ghosts? Yes, I did. Oh, you thought I meant those confounded flying things - flying saucers or ufos, whatever. Whatever? Yes, whatever! But, you can't compare ufos with ghosts, you say. Yes I can, and will! Has anyone seen a ghost? Yes, many have. Has anybody ever photographed a ghost? Yes. What does a ghost look like? It has many different shapes and is sometimes invisible - like the ufos. Are ghosts friendly? Some are, like the benevolent creatures from some ufos. Did a ghost ever attack anyone? Yes, some even killed - like some of the ufo creatures.

So you see, ghosts are very much like ufos. As a matter of fact, poltergeistic activity has often been associated in ufo cases, particularly in Warminster, England. The ufo situation is much the same as believers in ghosts, some groups are scientifically-minded and disregard the way-outer. Ufologists are exactly the same! The same questions are asked: Where do they come from? Why are they here? What do they want? Ghastly, isn't it? No, both are ghostly.

Curiosity has, no doubt, fired the imagination of many who manufactured things, ghostly or ufoly, seeking attention. Pranksters have invaded both fields also. Therefore, we are always confronted with rumors - past and present. Confusion reigns!

Occult...this is taboo in the realms of ufo researchers - 95% of them at least. Yet, if we are to believe that poltergeistic activity is caused by children, so scientists say, their not-fully-developed minds causing things to fly about rooms and other eerie manifestations - what would a fully developed mind be capable of? Creating saucers? Men in black? Killing? Insanity? Hallucinations? Operators and Things? Confusion reigns!

I know what a flying saucer is! I ought to know, I helped create them. How many helped? That, I do not know. There were plenty of us in those early days, today we number in the millions. But, like the tower of Babel, we do not agree about its shape or size, who flies them, or where they come from. We're not even sure why they should be here. Phooey, you say. Phooey, I say! But, then again, is it so inconceivable for the minds of men to accomplish such feats? Fear is man's greatest enemy, yet he continually creates this madness, which sometimes involves hundreds of others...sometimes...billions upon billions when it comes to H-bombs. Do we create fear mentally and physically because we need it, or is it a part of us?

If, unwittingly, I did help create flying saucers, I know I will never catch one until it has been completed fully. That is a tall order! Scientifically? I caught a cold last winter...well, not really, how can you catch something you can't see? So, I had a cold because that thing (virus) is in me and doesn't like cold weather. Or, is it me who doesn't like the cold weather which in turn infuriates my virus to act up? Chasing saucers (like ghosts) is like chasing rainbows. I know a fella who caught his shadow one time, but, nobody believed him because the sun had gone down. Confusion say, "We'll Never Catch Them!" ☐

In Point Pleasant, W.Va., Linda Scarberry looked across the seat of the '57 Chevy and admired her husband, Roger.

Big-framed, blond and laconic, he usually masked his more subtle feelings in a kind of Puckish silence.

Steve Mallette, in the back seat, was Roger's almost inseparable buddy. Different from Roger as "night and day" Steve was always acting, hiding a deeply sensitive nature.

"Let 'er go, Rog, don't be so light on the foot! Just because we're old married men is no reason to let those young snotnosed kids drag us!"

"Steve, DON'T!" Mary protested. "We don't want to get ourselves killed!" Roger had shown up about nine that evening, just like he used to do in their carefree courting days. "Let's get out and drag. I got a full tank of gas and a girl ready for speed!"

As they talked, Mary became imbued with the same excitement that evidently was affecting the men. After their weddings, which took place only two months apart, they had suddenly effected a more "adult" outlook on life. They stopped turning up twice each week at the drive-in hamburger stand, and were no longer known in the teenage community as the draggers who would never be called "chicken."

Then the ritual began: the ride up Route 62, and the perigeonations in and out of the non-patrolled roads in the lonely T.N.T. area.

They drove around and around, "burning rubber" on the gravelled roads between the main drags. But that night the area was deserted.

"Gee, I wonder where all the kids are," Roger remarked as he made a skidding left into the T.N.T. plant grounds. Completely abandoned since World War II, the old munitions complex loomed huge and ghost-like. No longer did the owners, whoever and wherever they were, bother to lock the gates to

THE LONELY PLACE

A condensed chapter from the forthcoming book THE SILVER BRIDGE - By Gray Barker

the property, and it had become a favorite parking ground for young lovers, and stag groups who threw stones at the remaining glassed windows.

Roger halted the car in front of the powerhouse. A bright moon outlined the vast, ghostly structure. The broken windows stared like blind eyes at them, as clouds, caught in high winds, threw intermittent pools of shadow on the lonely place. The blustery local winds shook loosened parts of the powerhouse, wailing through its empty blackness.

And there in that dark setting, lurking close to the cadaverous structure, did Mothman come to Point Pleasant.

"Rog, look! Look at those eyes!" Steve yelled.

"Then I too saw them," Scarberry told me.

"Those eyes. It was like they were staring at me, like they were looking inside me, and through me!" he continued.

"You couldn't draw away from those eyes. I don't know if they were hypnotic or if it was the shade of them. It was a different color, you know, kind of red; they just glowed and lit up when light hit them (actual words from tape recording)."

Benjamin Franklin IV, retired school executive, an apt professional magician (and a direct descendant of the noted ancestor), sat with me and the four witnesses around a table in a relative's kitchen, as the story of their wild flight from the T.N.T. area, and from Mothman, unfolded.

When Steve saw the eyes, his reaction marked the beginning of a miasma of fear which would continue to plague the couple long after the initial experience. His first impulse was to get out of there, but the eyes held him momentarily in an almost hypnotic trance, while he tried to fill in the features of the creature or thing which looked out through them.

It was a tall, waddling, ungainly thing. Folded around and behind its shadowy body was an enormous pair of wings. It seemed to be trying to get away, out of the light.

"It was more or less running," Steve told us, "trying to balance itself with its wings which spread slightly outward. It staggered like a crippled chicken as it disappeared around the corner of the building. I'm sure it was trying to get out of sight, into the door just around the corner.

"We paused for about a minute, not knowing what to do. The girls hadn't got a good look at it, though Mary had caught a glimpse of its eyes."

Roger insisted it was only a bird of some kind, and that they had nothing to fear. But he hadn't got a good look at it, as had Steve.

"It looks something like those old pictures in the family Bible. Like an evil angel. I don't think we ought to hang around here any longer," Steve argued.

This description startled Roger, and suddenly convinced that Steve was right, he pushed in the clutch and shifted into second. The Chevy lurched forward and stopped, as the motor died.

"Roger, it's not going to let us go," Linda screamed. "Let's get out of here and run!"

Roger ground at the starter. In his excitement he had flooded the engine. He pushed the gas feed to the floor and turned the engine over a few times. Waiting a few precious seconds, while the suspense, and his fright, mounted, he tried the starter again and the motor uttered an encouraging cough. But the starter slowed, gave one last groan and quit. The battery was dead.

"Hurry, give me a shove. We're on a downhill grade," he insisted to Steve.

"I didn't want to get out of that car, but I was desperate, I suppose. I felt that that thing was going to come back around that corner and get us at any moment. But I knew we had to get out of there. I jumped out, put my hands in the window frame and rocked the car. After a few rocks it began to move, and then I really shoved at that old Chevy!"

The car gradually picked up momentum on the downgrade, and Steve pushed harder, each yard of progress putting him farther out of reach of a nameless horror. He did not look back, for fear the ugly thing was looking at him, following him, ready to jump on his back.

With a grinding of gears Roger threw the shift into low, and released the clutch. The car paused, stiffened, and backfired. Then the motor started with little spurts, and he pushed in the clutch and gunned it. Linda opened the door, crying, "Hurry, Steve!" and he hopped in.

Roger let out the clutch and burned rubber.

"Could those have been animal eyes, do you think?" Ben Franklin asked Steve.

"I see a lot of animal eyes at night. You can see them along the road all the time. These eyes seemed to be so much larger. That's what made me notice them."

"Would you say they were as big as a half-dollar?" I asked.

"They were bigger!" Roger averred. "When you see animal eyes on the road, they just aren't that large, or spaced as far apart. Then this thing was six or seven feet tall."

"That's about as tall as I am," I joked, but nobody laughed. The witnesses were ready to recount the further events of the night.

Once the suspense of starting the stalled car had ended, their fears lessened, and they were further relieved as they turned off the side road onto the main highway, which would take them back into town. Route 62 is very crooked in that area, and they slowed to a comfortable 40 miles per hour. But Mothman's reign of terror had just begun.

As they rounded a bend and their lights reflected momentarily on a small hillside, they saw it again, standing there, as if waiting. That was where they got their terrifying, best look at it.

"You couldn't tell if it had a head or not, or if it had arms. I don't think it had any, but it had wings. I mean you could tell the wings, for they came up and turned down, you know, and kind of wrapped around behind it!"

"Those eyes were about two inches in diameter, and six to eight inches apart."

"Did you see its legs?" Ben directed this question to Roger, who was speaking, but Mary interrupted:

"Yes, it definitely had legs. They seemed to be as thick as a man's legs!"

"You mean, not like a bird's legs?"

"They were muscular legs. You could tell that, somehow," Steve declared.

"Did you see any feathers, or skin, or clothing?"

"Not that we could distinguish as such. I mean I couldn't say if it were fur, feathers or what!"

"What color was the thing?"

"You couldn't see exactly. We saw it only for a few brief moments, before it took off, as if it couldn't stand the light. I guess you could say it had a grayish body."

"Did you see any knee, or bend in the leg?"

"No, I did not."

Mothman's departure was as novel as its appearance. When it left it did not flap its wings, but took off vertically, shooting upward into the air like a rocket at great speed, but without visible means of propulsion.

Scarberry had hit the brake when he saw the apparition the second time. He didn't know why, except that again the eyes had demonstrated a hypnotic effect, which held him "in its spell." Upon the creature's takeoff, however, the spell was broken, but supplanted with undescribable fright.

He tried to drive the gas pedal into the floor, as the car quickly picked up speed and the wheels screamed on curves. As the road straightened he became aware that the speedometer was hitting 100, then 105. He didn't know the old car would do it, but at the moment that didn't impress him. He only knew he wanted to get out of there, and back into town. Linda clutched at him, sobbing.

"Can't you go any faster?"

"I'm doing all this old car will do!"

In the back seat, Mary screamed.

"I see it, I see it! It's after us!"

Clutching and tearing at the wheel, Roger saw the dark shadow, subtle and indistinct in the moonlight. Along with the shadow was the feeling that something was stalking them. He knew it was up there, following them at incredible speed.

The huge hulk of a trailer truck loomed suddenly; Roger swerved and screamed around it in a tight curve, careening almost into the ditch to avoid an oncoming car with its brights up.

"I just had to get away from that thing," he told us. "It's a wonder we didn't crack up!"

He became a part of the speeding and complaining machinery that was the '57 Chevy. Linda now gripped him like a madwoman. From behind, Steve leaned forward and grabbed at his shoulders and shook him.

"Get out of here! Get out of here!"

Steve's fingers, in terrified frenzy, dug into his shoulders. Then he pounded at him, and at the front seat.

"I know it's after us! Let's make it! It's keeping right up with us!" Mary cried.

"I know my hair stood on end," Steve declared, "and I was pushin' and poundin' at old Rog to make him go faster, and all that time that old junker was doin' all she would do. I don't know what came over me. I've been scared before, but nothing like that."

Ben asked Steve to describe his fear, but he couldn't.

"Seemed like you could feel it all around you; seemed like it left my mind a blank till we got to where we could talk about it. All I could think of was getting away from it."

"Really though," Roger chimed in, "I didn't think any of us really felt we had seen it until we got down the road and got to talking about it and knew all of us had seen the same thing."

"It was kind of like a dream -- a bad dream," Mary added.

The gathering clouds had blocked out the moon, and no longer could they see Mothman's shadow, though they could still feel the presence, hovering above them. □
